FANCHETTE.

A STORY OF FRENCH PEASANT LIFE.

'It is about forty years since, Monsieur,' said the Priest, that a young girl named Fanchette, lived with her infirm mother, in a little hamlet of the neighborhood. Her youth, for she was not quite fifteen, and the delicacy of her complexion, not permitting her to devote herself, with advantage to the labors of the country, she came into this town in order to seek a place, and finally found one in the house of an old collector of the king's taxes, an avaritious and wicked man. The custom in this country is to bind one's self for three consecutive years, at the end of which time, the master is at liberty to send away his servants if they do not satisfy him, and this engagement is binding upon both parties. Fanchette was to have ten crowns per annum, which she intended for her poor mother, hoping to receive some little presents to eke out her own wants; but she was greatly mistaken in her expectations. As she never complained of her condition, in spite of the work with which she was overtasked; and as she always appeared neatly clad and in good humor, her master easily persuaded himself that she had no need of money.

'At the end of the first year, he gave her a pair of sabots, and the next year terminated with a similar proof of his generosity. At the expiration of the third year, which finished the agreement Fanchette wishing to leave her master, asked him for the thirty crowns that he now owed her, in order to return home to her old mother, hoping to be of more assistance to her by working near her with the needle, with which she had become very skillful during her residence here; but the collector, justly satisfied with the services of Fanchette, with her promptitude and sobriety, and despairing of replacing her, was sorry to see her about to leave his house. Abusing the inexperience of the girl in the most unworthy manner, he demanded an agreement from her for three years more, before he would pay her the wages already due. The unfortunate Fanchette, seeing herself thretened with the loss of her little treasure, so dearly acquired, and of the liberty for which she sighed after a long and painful servitude, was in despair. In her fatal inexperience, and without daring to consult any one, on account of the consideration which her master held, and owed to his riches only, and from the fear that his wicked character inspired Fanchette took occasion of a moment when he was absent, to possess herself by stealth, of the ninety francs that were due her. She made a little bundle of her clothes, quitted the country without saying a word to any of her companions, and returned home to her mother. Her master, astonished at her absence soon perceived the loss of his thirty crowns. Impelled by anger and revenge, he immediately cried out that he was robbed, and carried his complaint before the magistrate, who directed instant pursuit to be made after Fanchette. They found her quietly working in the cottage of her poor mother. She was arrested and braught to the city. Fanchette was generally beloved; the event excited the surprise of every one; nothing equaled her own I had had occasion to see this dear child during her religious exercises to which she was as attentive as her domestic labors permitted. I had obtained her confidence and admired the goodness of her natural disposition. By my advice and instruction, she learned to read, to write, and to cipher, sacrificing a part of her night's rest to her studies. She had in fect inspired me with such a degree of interest that I did not, for an instant, doubt the innocence ot her heart. I soon hastened to the city, where I obtained without any difficulty permission to see her and fulfil the sacred functions of my ministry near her. It was then that I learned from her the particulars which I have just related to you. I moreover knew that she had left in her masters wardrobe, in the place of the money she had taken, a letter in which she informed him of her departure, and gave him a receipt for her three years wages. The wicked old man had carefully abstained from speaking of this extenuating circumstance, as well as of his debt; this latter, however, he was compelled to acknowledge before the tribunal, in default of having any receipts to show; because, having denied the existance of Fanchette's letter, he could not show the receipt that she had written. The poor creature frankly confessed all that she had done; in her ignorance of the laws, she could not convince herself that she had committed any crime, or even a fault. Her wicked master asserted that he had only kept Fanchette's wages at her own request, pretending that she wished to save them up, and that she had no necessity for money. In fact, the sweet and respectful disposition of the girl had always prevented her complaining of her master, and the air of satisfaction and calmness that had been generally remarked upon her pleasant face, gave show of credance to the old man's lying assertions. In fine, what shall I say Monsieur? You know with what severity domestic theft is punished in our provinces; in spite of the interesting youth of the victim, in spite of her eighteen years of irreproachable life, in spite of my personal efforts and the tears of the whole country side, this angel of candor and virtue was sentenced to death. Fanchette was hanged, here, on the very green where you have this day seen the dances and quarreling and it is still the the recollection of her that has given rise to the latter.'

The recital of the old priest had so enchanted my attention, that I had forgotten the circumstance which he recalled to my memory at this instant, and I sought in my mind for the relation that might exist between Fanchette and the William brothers, for I believed the story now concluded. I was about to question the good ecclesiastic upon this point, when I saw that his listeners, instead of returning to their sports, as is their custom at the end of a story one has just told them, closed up still more the circle that they formed, so as even to lean upon our knees, and the good father resumed as follows:

"Let it be deeply engraved on our memories, my dear friends, that it is never permitted to any one, either to pay himself or to do himself justice with his own hands; in like cases, one must always address himself to the magistrate intrusted with this duty. It was from want of being acquainted with this principle, that the unfortunate Fanchette was so terribly punished. Fortunate, however, would she have been had her sufferings ended with the punishment whose severity so affrighted you.

'Several years had rolled by since the execution of Fanchette, when an inconceivable event took place, that recalled and perpetuated her sad remembrance in these parts. Two inhabatents of this village had gone to Paris, to establish themselves as commissionaires. They were William and his brother, whom you have just seen, and who formed the subject of your inquiry of the hostess.— After having saved some money, the elder was desirous of getting married. He went, with his brother, to a merchant on the Quai des Orfevres, to buy the trinkets that are customary to present on such occasions. They entered by chance, into a shop where a young woman behind the counter sold them articles of little value, and to their entire satisfaction. Content with their bargain and not having spent as much as they had expected, they went into a neighboring wine shop in order to spend the remainder of their purchase money to drink. They sat down in a private corner: the younger of the two brothers appeard thoughtful; and did not share in the gayety of the elder, who excited him to drink and drive away his thoughtfulness, upon which he ralied him. 'Didst thou notice the young shop woman whom we just left?' asked the younger of his brother. 'Not much,' replied the latter, 'why so?' 'It is very singular how much she looke like Fanchette!' 'Ah! poor Fanchette; if she could sell any thing now, it would be nuts and apples, and not jewelry,' replied William, hob-nobbing with his brother.— 'But' resumed the latter, 'didst thou notice the large collar of black velvet? nobody weares anything like that.' 'That's true; and a dealer in jewelry too. She aught not to want for gold chains to wear.' 'It is Fanchette!' cried the young man, striking his fist upon the table; 'it is she!' 'Good!' replied the other; 'what have you got to show for it? We saw her haning. And then, every day, we see one woman like another.' 'She has the accent of the country,' said his brother; 'it is Fanchette! I'm sure of it!' With these words, they went out of the cabret, heated with the wine they had drank, and returned to the Quai des Orfeveres. There they stoped before the shop, in order to look at the young shopwoman through the window; and the young man had no difficulty in convincing William, overcome by wine, that it that it really was Fanchette. A feeling of cupidity was united to the culpable curiosity of the younger brother.

THE FOREIGN NEWS.

We are again disappointed in the expectations we entertained, of receiving by the Steamer Atlantic, certain information as to the fate of Silistria. We have only fresh rumors from thence of various complexion. One alleges that the Turks have made a sally and destroyed the Russian batteries. Another states that a battle had taken place between the besieged and their assailants, at which a prodigious slaughter of the latter occurred. Some correspondents seem to think that the Russians were losing heart; others on the contrary, speak anxiously of the prospects of the Turkish garrison. All that we know for a certainty is that Silistria is still besieged, and that the allied troops are as idle as they were. Inactivity, in fact, seems to be the ruling characteristic of the Anglo-French tactics. It was not worth while cavilling at the time lost by St. Arnaud and Raglan in France, if it was intended that they should do so little when they reached the scene of action. Nor does it matter much how Sir Charles Napier's fleet is equipped, if he purposes to spend the summer in cruising amiably off Sweaborg. Sanguine people at Paris and London, predict that we shall hear of something decisive towards the close of June. If the allied horse and artillery were pushed forward with vigor, some important action might possibly occur about that time. A decisive battle fought under the walls of Silistria might possibly terminate the war.

The New York Herald well remarks, that the superstitious will remember with interest, how many great battles have taken place in the latter weeks in June. The fate of Scotland was decided by the battle of Bannockburn on the 24th of June. The ruin of Charles I. of England was consummated at Naseby on the 14th of June. The affair of Bunker Hill took place the 17th, and greatly influenced our struggle for independence. The battle of Monmouth was on the 28th. On the 14th June the fate of Italy was decided at Marengo, and on the 21st the power of Austria was crushed for many a year at Ulm.—Spain was released from the Bonapartes at Vittoria on the same day of June, thirteen years afterwards. Finally, the fate of Napoleon and of Europe was solved at Waterloo on the 18th June. The world expects that this present June will decide that of Turkey.

Meanwhile diplomacy pursues its tortuous course. A rumor to the effect that the Czar had refused to accede to the terms proposed by Austria, with reference to the principalities, seems to have induced Frederic William of Prussia to pay a hasty personal visit to the young Emperor of Austria. The meeting took place at Tetschen, on the Austrian frontier, and both monarchs were accompanied by their foreign ministers. We have no intimation of the result of the conference. It is surmised that the King of Prussia was fearful of an actual junction between Austria and the Western Powers, and took the step in the interest of the Czar; but whether, if this was his real motive, he has succeeded in shaking the alleged purpose of Francis Joseph, we have yet to learn. It is certain that the head quarters of the Russian army are being removed from Wallachia into Moldavia; a movement which would seem to indicate an apprehension of Austrian hostility on the part of the Czar. But this, and every other item of news which comes to us in the British papers, are so obviously interpreted according to the wishes of the journalists, that the inferences which are drawn from them must be received with caution. The war, no doubt, is affecting Austrian commercial interests most injuriously; and the expense to which the government of the Emperor is put for the maintenance of a large standing army, would be likely to induce him to desire to terminate the necessity for that burthen as soon as possible. But, on the other hand, there are so many dynastic and family obstacles in the way of a friendly concert of action between Austria and the Western Powers, and the young Emperor has evinced such manifest reluctance to assume a position of open hostility against the Czar, that we ought to wait for some less equivocal signs before we venture to conclude that Austria and Russia have ceased to be private friends.

From Great Britain the news is unimportant. The recent ministerial changes have been well received. The aspect of commercial affairs is on the whole, more satisfactory than it has been for some time past. The funds have long ceased to be any guide, in consequence of the over speculation to which the war gave rise. But the absence of any material movement in the great commercial staples, and the increase of bullion in the Bank of England, will impart confidence to the market. The opening of the new Crystal Palace, which took place on the 10th, was a magnificent affair, and does not indicate any popular suffering or discontent in consequence of the war.

The news from China containing an account of the attack of the British and Americans on the imperialist Camp, does not amount to an espousal of the imperialist cause by the foreigners. The outrages which they took arms to avenge were not committed under orders from the imperialist chiefs, and appear to have arisen in consequence of the lack of discipline among their troops.

THE LA SALLE MURDERERS.

The Democrat of yesterday morning is out in a very cautious article in relation to the efforts now being made to secure either a pardon or a commutation of the sentence of the four murderers now lying in our jail. It admits their guilt; does not attempt to deny that they were present at the riot, engaged in it, and in the commission of unlawful violence, and therefore legally responsible for any results of that violence. It admits that they deserve punishment, but intimates that inasmuch as their hands did not actually strike Story down to the earth, and mangle his corpse so as to deprive it of every semblance of humanity, although they were present, aiding and abetting in the crime, they are proper subjects for Executive clemency. It also is of the opinion that "their imprisonment, since the commission of the act, has been no light punishment."

We know that human life is very cheap, at present, but we must object to having it rated at quite so low a figure as this. A few months imprisonment is not a severe punishment for the commission of a brutal murder, when for the passage of a counterfeit bill a man is doomed to five, ten, or perhaps twenty years hard labor in the Penitentiary. We commend to the Democrat the following portion of its own remarks. It cannot do better than to stick to this text:

> We are decidedly opposed to the general and indiscriminate use of the pardoning power as exercised in some of the States. It leads to demoralization—invites to crime by taking away the terrors of punishment, and is treason against the best interests of society.

The best and most independent journals throughout the State unite with us in opposing the pardon of these men. They see that it would be at once an unwise, an unjust, and a cruel act—cruel, because it would be mistaken kindness. The Alton Republican, in speaking of this matter, says:

> We hope Gov. Matteson will not be so unwise as to grant the pardon of the four murderers in Chicago, awaiting the execution, on the 28th of next month, of their sentence of death, for the butchering of Story at Lasalle. A petition is circulating in Chicago and other places for their reprieve, and a strong political influence will be brought to bear upon the Governor to effect that object. We think it is the duty of those journals that desire to preserve the integrity of our laws to speak out upon this subject. Shall political influence do for [illegible] what wealth has for Kentucky? We hope and trust not.

Arrested.—Finally, the murderer of Mitchell has been arrested, so we are informed, and is now lodged in Kane county.

A STRANGE SERPENT.

The Press of yesterday morning has a scholastic and erudite leader headed "Old Issues," in which, after making the very startling assertion that the question of a National Bank and the Tariff no longer occupy the attention of the public mind, and no longer form points of issue upon which the people may divide into parties, it diverges into a labored panegyric on the "great Democratic party" of the Union. The following will serve as a specimen.

> An effort and a powerful one will be made by our adversaries to identify us with the extension of human servitude; but the Democracy will not be put in this false position.—The freedom and not the enslaving of our race is the boon which Democrats are determined to secure for the whole family of man. It is the high and holy mission our party has to perform, and it will not turn aside from its appropriate work so long as a single tyrant wrests from the people their inalienable rights.

This description of the nature of the Democratic party, reminds us of Antony's description of the crocodile, in Shakspeare. It is just about as satisfactory. The passage is as follows:

> Lepidus.—What manner o' thing is your crocodile?
>
> Antony.—It is shaped, sir, like itself; and it is as broad as it hath breadth; it is just so high as it is, and moves with its own organs; it lives by that which nourisheth it; and, the elements once out of it, it transmigrates.
>
> Lep.—What color is it of?
>
> Ant.—Of its own color too.
>
> Lep.—'Tis a strange serpent.
> Ant.—'Tis so. And the tears of it are wet.

We think the people of the country understand the character of this strange serpent too well to ever be again deceived by its "crocodile tears" even if they are wet. If the Democratic party will not be identified "with the extension of human slavery," let them come out from under the leadership of Douglas and Pierce, whose every nerve is stretched and every energy engaged in a struggle for that very purpose. If "the freedom and not the enslaving of our race is the boon which Democrats are determined to secure for the whole family of man," how does it happen that a Democratic Senate, a Democratic House of Representatives, and a Democratic President, have made a law to extend the dominion of slavery over a vast extent of territory, hitherto consecrated to freedom, and how does it happen that this Senate, House of Representatives, and President unite in declaring support of this measure to be a test of Democracy? If "it is a high and holy mission" which the Democratic party has to perform, how does it happen that the only work it ever has done or ever will do, is of a debasing, degrading and disgraceful nature; that the garments of its supporters and leaders are sullied by the slime of party demagogueism, and that their hands are crimson with the blood of freedom! Is it a "high and holy mission" to break a solemn compact, to disregard solemn obligations, to disavow plighted faith, to overthrow the bulwarks of defence which the wisdom of the fathers of the Republic have thrown around our freedom, and to let in the baleful curse of slavery and slave power? Yet this is what Democracy, and the Democratic party have done and are now doing. This is its mission, these are its fruits, these are the tears of this "strange serpent," and they are, indeed very wet! We are sick of such hypocrisy. If the Press had any shame left, it would never be guilty of filling a column with such transparent falsehoods as the one of which we have given a specimen.

THE TUNNEL.

It is perhaps known to most of our citizens that a proposition has been submitted to the Common Council of the city, through J. R. Miller, Esq., by the American Sub-marine Tunnel Company, of New York, in regard to constructing a tunnel under the Chicago river. The subject was referred to a special committee of the Council, of which Alderman Granger was chairman. The committee are now ready to present the following REPORT.

In the opinion of the committee it is time that some more effectual mode of crossing the rivers between the several divisions of the city should be adopted, and in view of the present [illegible] want of such a crossing as is contemplated in a tunnel and in view of the astonishing growth of the city, the committee have given all the attention that could be spared for the subject. Under the present embarrassed condition of the treasury, and the great difficulty of concentrating public opinion upon any one plan, and numerous other difficulties that usually attend a great public improvement of this character, the committee is happy in being able to present for consideration, the proposition of the American Sub-marine Tunnel Company, of New York, as is expressed in the communication of Mr. Miller and Col. J. R. F. Russell, herewith submitted, together with the accompanied draft of a contract that has been carefully drawn by the assistance of the City Attorney, and they have full confidence that the interest of the city is well guarded, and if adopted by the Council, it will be executed by the Company and carried out in good faith. The committee therefore earnestly recommend that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to execute said contract on the part of the city, believing as they do, that no one other act of the Council would contribute more to the growth and growing enterprise of our city.

The following abstract presents the main features of the contract. The tunnel is to be finished May 1st, 1855, made of cast iron; entrances on a grade not exceeding one foot fall in nine, to be either on State and Wolcott or on north or south La Salle streets, or on north and south Franklin streets, to be designated by the Council in 60 days. The plan is to be that of J. R. Miller, iron 1½ inches thick, two wagon tracks, each 10 feet wide and two foot ways, each four foot wide, the former 11 feet high and the latter 7 feet. The approaches to be north of south Water street, and south of north Water street, the bottom of the carriage ways to be cast iron covered with oak plank, the top of the tunnel sheathed with pine, 6 inches thick; the foot ways to be flagged and have iron steps to the level of the street. The top of the tunnel to be not less than 12 feet below low water mark for 150 feet in the centre of the river. The city to have the right to purchase the tunnel at an appraised value determined by three persons, one chosen by the city, one by the company and one by the two selected. The city reserves the right to prescribe rules for the opening, closing, lighting and cleaning the tunnel, and enforcing police regulations. The company shall have the right to establish the following rates of toll. Each foot passenger, 1 cent. Each wagon with one horse, 3 cents. Each wagon with 2 horses 5 cents.

☞ It appears that the General Butler, who is announced as the Governor of Nebraska, by appointment of the President, is Gen. Wm. O. Butler, of Kentucky. Gen. Butler represented a district of Kentucky in Congress a few years ago. He was the democratic candidate for Governor of that State in 1844, and defeated by the Whig candidate, Judge Wm. Owsley. He was the democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency in 1848, and defeated by the whig, Millard Fillmore.

Gen. Butler, in early life gained some military reputation in a little skirmishing with the Indians. He was in the Mexican War, a Brigadier General of Polk's appointment, and was severely wounded in the battle of Monterey. While his bravery is unquestioned, it is nevertheless true that he made no reputation for generalship in the Mexican war. It is said indeed that General Taylor was very indignant at certain bad management of Gen. Butler at Monterey, whereby many men were lost.

Of Mr. Reeder, the fortunate chief of Kansas we know nothing except that he is Mr. Andrew H. Reeder, of Northampton county, Pennsylvania.

☞ The editor of the Milwaukee Free Democrat has been presented with a walking cane.—It is hickory, large and smooth, steel shod outside and steel pointed within. The head is ivory, octagon shaped, and capped with solid gold two inches and a half deep, richly ornamented. Below the ivory is a massive gold band, one inch wide. On the top is inscribed—

PRESENTED TO
S. M. BOOTH,
By the Colored Citizens of Milwaukee for his fearless Defense of the Equal Rights of all Men, irrespective of Birth, Condition or Color.
June 28th, 1854.

On the gold band is inscribed: "Life and Liberty are from God. To defend them is the Right and Duty of Man."

☞ On Saturday the Know Nothings and whigs of Norfolk, Virginia, succeeded in electing their entire ticket for municipal officers.

NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

New York, June 24.

Editors Tribune—Business on the New York & Erie Railroad, interrupted by a conspiracy on the part of one hundred and twenty engineers, located on the Susquehanna, Delaware, Eastern and Union divisions of the road, has been resumed and all trains are now in successful operation, performing their daily trips without molestation.

As much has been said to manufacture public opinion, I will give a clear and full statement of the facts, first prefacing that since the 4th day of May, last, the N. Y. & E. R. R. has never been operated so successfully. The great regularity of starting and running of all trains was noticed by all, even those having no experience in managing railroads. The rules objected to by the engineers were in existence during Mr. Minot's government of the road, though not enforced. But when Mr. D. C. McCallum took charge of the road it was generally understood, from his previous firmness of character, that such rules as he deemed necessary for the interest of the Company, safety of property and life, would be carried out to the letter. He considered it important that an engineer should have perfect control of his train when approaching a station where his instructions required him to stop. Consequently the following rule was adopted: "Engineers on approaching a station where they are required to stop, should run at such a rate of speed as to be able to see if a switch was properly adjusted before hazarding the safety of a train, and, if wrong, stop."—This prevents the too frequent loss of life and property which has occurred on all roads. The rules hold all engineers responsible for running off switches at such stations, but not at stations where they were not required to stop, but requiring them to report to the General Superintendent any neglect of duty on the part of switch men. In case an engineer violated this rule, without some good excuse, it was understood a discharge would follow, with a promise that a letter would be given to such engineers, giving the circumstances, their former character, and the number of years they had served the Company. This, not being deemed satisfactory to the engineers, they resolved to leave the road by giving three days notice, which occurred on the 20th inst. Since then their places have been supplied by other men, and the road is now in successful operation. The Company have suffered severely in consequence of this suspension of the business of the road, which is of little consequence, considering the principle whether the Superintendent or employees shall govern. I am satisfied the traveling public will approve of the course pursued by the Superintendent of this great thoroughfare, and meet their temporary disappointments without a murmur, when the rule is for the safety of life and property. The motto is safety first—speed secondly. The traveling public, knowing these facts, cannot fail to appreciate the merits of the road, with their wide cars, and great amount of double track, fine scenery, and manifest desire on the part of the employees to carry them safe and comfortably.

Yours, Buckeye.

ST. JOHN'S DAY IN CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, June 25.

Editors Tribune: Gentlemen—yesterday was a gala day with the colored citizens of the Queen City, and with it commenced a new era amongst the colored Free Masons of the United States.

In accordance with previous arrangements due notice of which had been sent to all the colored Lodges in the Union, there was a large gathering of the fraternity on yesterday to celebrate the birth day of St. John the Baptist, a day held so dear by all true Ancient Free Masons.

I shall not attempt to give you a fair or correct account of this celebration, for it would be too great a tax upon your columns; but will only allude in brief to some of its prominent features: and here let me state, as a fact well worthy of the serious contemplation of our white skinned brethren of Illinois, who have so far departed from the ancient land marks of the Order, as to discriminate and refuse fraternal relations with their colored brother, that the Grand Lecturer of the State of Kentucky did not deem it derogatory to his character to sit in this Lodge of Colored Free and accepted Ancient York Masons, to assist and council with them in making their arrangements for this celebration; on the contrary he was highly gratified at being allowed the pleasure of thus fraternizing with us, and it is no uncommon occurrence to have eight or ten pale faced brethren to cross the river from Covington, to work with us whenever we have work to do here.

After forming the procession at our Lodge Room, corner of Fifth street and Broadway, the right resting on Fifth St, it wound up Fifth and through most of the principal streets of the city, making a most respectable appearance, and eliciting the favorable criticisms of the citizens generally, and to the credit of the Cincinnatians, I will reveal the fact, that not a single instance of ill feeling or insult was seen or heard during the entire day. Not the least interesting feature in the procession was the celebrated Brass Band of Frank Johnson, which is now conducted by Mr. Anderson, who is one of Mr. Johnson's pupils. The members of this Band have won golden opinions for themselves from the citizens of this place both for their fine artistic skill and gentlemanly deportment. I understand that Mr. Strader has tendered them (14 in number,) a free passage home to Philadelphia, which is of itself a high compliment.

After repairing to Baker street Church, and hearing a fine and appropriate address by Brother Skinman, Grand Chaplain, and some pertinent remarks from Brother Darius, G. M., of Ohio we again passed through several of the principal thoroughfares, then returned to the Lodge and dispersed; all being highly delighted with the pleasures of the day.

I think, sir, from evidences which we see all around us in this State, that a much higher estimate is placed upon the intelligence and worth of the colored man, than in most of the Free States of the Union; and they are encouraged to further efforts to merit in a higher degree, these sentiments of liberality on the part of their pale faced Law Makers, and I long to see the day arrive when our own State will follow the example of Ohio, and treat their colored citizens more humanely, by eradicating from her statutes those barbarous Black Laws which now disgrace her name, with the sister Free States of the Republic. Most respectfully yours,

J. D. B.

Editor Tribune:—Dear Sir: A statement appeared in yesterday's Tribune, the object of which was to exonerate me from a supposed plagiarism. That statement is duly authenticated and enforced by responsible parties—of its merits the public can judge for themselves. I should not trouble you with the subject, deeming it of small interest to your readers, were it not that my statement was attacked in the same columns by a party signing himself "Justitia." I wish to inform you and the public that the statements of "Justitia" are simply ridiculous calumniatory lies, dictated by the meanest and most contemptible spirit of personal revenge and jealousy. And inasmuch as my name is attached to my statement and to this note, I request you to inform the public that the person who impugns my motives and assails my character is Mr. S. G. Land, who may be remembered was attached to the Theatre in the early part of the season. He has appeared as an actor, and now appears as a writer;—of his merits in either capacity the public is the best judge.

Yours, resp'y, Henry Sedley.

For the Tribune.

How plainly does the Journal show its obligation to the Postmaster for the "letter list." He is down on the Council for not voting the city's money on Mr. Cook's petition, and on Mail Agent Mitchell's resolution, for a celebration of the Nebraska Bill on the 4th of July.

The Journal will next be out for Pierce & Co., or for Cook and Douglas, such as its inclination lately to apologize for Douglas not coming to Chicago, and copying flattering notices of Mr Cook from other papers. There is a great deal of influence in pap after all. Certainly Wm. H. Seward must be very proud of such friends; but we all understand these things, and they are certainly very amusing. Tax Payer.

For the Tribune.

EUROPEAN HOTELS.

Young America.—The experiment of Hotels, on the European plan, has been fully tested in all the Eastern cities, and has been found entirely successful. Several Hotels of this description have recently been built in the West and Southwest, among the best of which is the Bartling House, in St. Louis, kept by Messrs. Hulme & White, who have commenced fitting up a large Hotel in our city on the same plan—Young America.

It is to be kept like Delmonico's in New York city. When finished it will contain one hundred lodging rooms of fine size, to be furnished in better style than those of any other Hotel in our city. The Restaurant Saloon will be 20 by 70 feet, and the main Saloon, which is already furnished, is 40 by 80 feet. These saloons are decorated in the most beautiful modern style, at an immense expense, and are of so large a size, with such height of ceiling, as to prevent the disagreeable odor which pervades smaller restaurants. There is a magnificent billiard Saloon attached to the Hotel, containing two more tables than the billiard room of the Tremont House; this room is 40 by 90 feet. The whole building will be finished and ready for occupancy by the first of October next. The estimated cost of the lot and building is one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the furniture will cost forty thousand dollars.

From the well earned reputation of Messrs. Hulme & White, for three years of the Bartling House, in St. Louis, there is no doubt but this Hotel will be kept as well as any west of the mountains; and will reflect great credit upon our city, whose rapidly increasing population, and immense trade, require more Hotels of the first class. Some over fastidious people have objected to the Hotel, because there are billiard and refreshment saloons attached to it, but these gentlemen should remember that there is not a first class hotel in the country which does not contain both.

One great advantage in Hotels of this description is, that strangers visiting friends whose lodging accommodations are limited, can procure a room, dine with their friends, and breakfast at the Restaurant, at a much less cost than at a Hotel, where they are obliged to pay for their meals at the table d'hote whether indulged in or not.

An Old Citizen.

For the Tribune.

SUNDAY DRUNKENNESS.

Mr. Editor:—I have been an attentive reader of your paper for some time, and am well pleased with the determined stand taken by you against all violations of right and morality, whether occupying high places, or dwelling among the lowly. At present it is my desire to assist in keeping in agitation, the great question, "Shall there be Sunday drunkenness in Chicago? shall the peaceable portion of the community continue to lend it material aid?"

We have before us an example of what can be done in a large and great city. Philadelphia has conclusively shown that Sunday traffic in liquor will not be tolerated. Is there not in Chicago those who will abolish this desecration of the Sabbath day!

The Christian community in our city, is in every respect equal to those in others; why do they not unite and act upon this great question? This is the only thing required, and then we can show the world a model city. Let not this vice grow with our growth. Shall the peaceable portion of the community continue to lend it material aid?

This question may surprise your readers, but let us look at facts. An election is held, and the liquor party triumph. Is it because they are stronger? No! The battle is not to the strong, but to the vigilant, active and brave. I am sorry to say these essentials are wanting upon the right side. There is too much apathy in the moral portion of our community on this all important subject, and thus they lend material aid to their enemies. Will they continue to do so? Unity in action will accomplish all that is necessary.

Let a meeting be called, and then show that the citizens of Chicago will do away with this crying evil, and at the next election let morality triumph over vice, that our people may enjoy peace, and our city a good name.

Yours Truly, Seneca.

STREET TAX.

The undersigned respectfully requests the citizens who are liable to pay street taxes, to pay the same forthwith. He has no desire to accumulate costs—the amount of which, if suit be commenced, will double the tax itself; neither has he any desire to make fees in cases where he believes the neglect arises from forgetfulness; and he trusts that after Monday, the 3d day of July, there will not be any occasion for his official interference.

Mr. U. P. Harris, City Treasurer, will receive the tax. P. Ballingall, Chicago, June 20, 1854. City Attorney.

☞ We stated the other day that Jackson the murderer of Laidlaw, had been arrested in Iowa, and taken back to St. Louis. After his arrest, among other interesting items of his flight, he related that he came towards this city, and that, while seated in the cars, an officer, with a telegraphic despatch in his hand containing his description, &c., passed through in search of him, and examined closely most of the male passengers. Jackson says that he actually read the despatch while it was in the officer's hands, and observed that his name, as is [illegible] in telegrams, was spelled wrong, although it had his description. He took the earliest opportunity to get out of the car unobserved, but did not go into Chicago as he thought it might be dangerous, and slept somewhere in the suburbs, and left early next morning.

Who was that officer?

☞ Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence are playing in Buffalo to very full houses.

☞ There were twelve cases of cholera in Philadelphia last week.

A GREAT BLESSING TO THE AFFLICTED.

☞ Dr. M'Lane, the inventor of the celebrated Liver Pills, used these pills for several years in his practice, before he could be induced to offer them to the public in such a manner as to make them known throughout the country. This learned physician felt the same repugnance that all high-minded men of science feel in entering the lists against those unscrupulous empirics who obtrude their useless nostrums upon the public, and rely upon a system of puffing to sustain them. Convinced, however, of the real value of the Liver Pills, and influenced by the plain dictates of duty, the Doctor finally sacrificed his delicate feelings on the altar of public good. His great medicine has not disappointed the expectations of the medical practitioners, at whose instance he was induced to forego his [illegible]. From every quarter do we hear the most gratifying accounts of its wonderful curative effects—the East and the West, the North and the South, are alike laden with "tidings of great joy" from the afflicted. These wonderful Pills have almost entirely conquered that great scourge of America, the Liver Complaint.

☞ Purchasers will please be careful to ask for, and take none but Dr. McLane's Vermifuge and Liver Pills.—All others, in comparison, are worthless.

P.S. Dr. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills, also Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge, can now be had at all the respectable Drug Stores in the United States and Canada.

Virginia Rockbridge Alum Spring
WATER,
NATURE'S OWN GREAT REMEDY.

IN THE CURE of Dyspepsia or Indigestion in all its forms Chronic Liver and Bowel affections, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Cutaneous Eruptions, Sore Eyes, Ulcerations, pain in the Limbs, general debility, and especially all Female complaints, Rheumatism, and in all diseases of the Glandular system, whether of inflammation, induration, or deficient secretion, it has no equal as a curative agent: restoring the secretions of the Liver, Skin and Kidneys whether deficient, excessive, or of bad quality, to a healthy condition.

DR. CHRISTIAN, of great experience in the use of this Water, says:—"As a remedy in all depraved conditions of the constitution, and of the blood, of Scrofula in its worst stages, we know of no remedy that has performed such astonishing cures."

Below we append a few extracts from numerous certificates from the highest and most reliable sources, confirming the efficacy and curative powers of the above named Waters:

The REV. A. D. [illegible], of South Carolina, writes—
"Inflamed tumors appeared on my right arm and left shoulder. I was prostrated, having little or no appetite and suffering great pain. The tumors and ulcers continued to spread over the surface of my head, which was pronounced Scrofula, by an eminent Physician. I commenced in August the use of the R. B. Alum Spring Water. After four weeks spent at the Spring and the use of the Water at home until June, I found myself under Divine blessing entirely removed of this dreaded disease."

DR. JNO. G. CARTER of Va., says:
"The daughter of John T. Lacy, Esq., our Representative, was at the age of ten years attacked with inflammation of the eyes, which resisted all the remedies which could be used. When I saw her I was apprehensive she would lose her sight. Dr. Charles E. Gibson advised a trip to the Rockbridge Alum Springs. For four weeks there was no perceptible improvement. She then recovered rapidly and at the end of eight weeks her general health became good, and her eyes almost entirely restored. Mrs. Lacy's health was, when she reached the Springs—very feeble, scarcely able to move. After a stay of eight weeks her health was entirely restored, and continued better than it had been for twenty years."

Certificate of the REV. A. W. METCALF:
"I cheerfully add my testimony to the virtue of the Alum Spring Waters. My disease was chronic liver affection. The Waters appealed to the Liver, improved the appetite, aided digestion, producing a general tonic effect upon the whole system. I feel assured I am indebted to the above Water for the health I have enjoyed ever since I tried their efficacy."

Capon Hill, Aug. 1, 1850.
Gentlemen:—I can truly say that I have suffered more than I thought I could bear, having been afflicted for the last [illegible] years with the worst bowel complaint. I procured the best medical advice, and found nothing to relieve me. In three months after I commenced the use of the Alum Water, I regained my appetite, my strength, and general health, and can confidently recommend the Waters to others.
Yours truly, J. T. BETHEL.

Rockingham County, Va.
Gentlemen:—For the last eight years I have suffered with that dreadful disease, Dyspepsia, accompanied with severe attacks of Asthma. I visited all the Western Springs, without relief. I then visited the Bath Alum Springs, with most decided benefit. I visited those Springs three seasons, and I may now say I am a well man. I have witnessed few cases relieved by these Waters, that seemed almost miraculous, in scrofula, dyspepsia, cutaneous affections, impurity of blood, &c. &c. I consider it one of the best medical Waters in the world, and as a blessing of God sent for the relief of afflicted man.
Yours truly, JOSEPH BELL.

MARINE.

The propeller Bucephalus, Capt. Alexander, bound for Buffalo, sunk on Saturday last, in ten feet water, at the dock at Lexington, Lake Huron, about 20 miles from the mouth of St. Clair River. She had on a cargo of 5000 bushels of corn for her owners; 1000 bbls of flour consigned to P. S. Marsh, of Buffalo; 200 bbls of flour to Dean Richmond of the same place; and some other rolling freight taken on after leaving this port. The vessel was owned by Holt, Palmer & Co. of Buffalo, and the Captain. Vessel and cargo insured. She will probably be got up during this week, and be on the route again shortly.

A new barque, named the Great West, arrived at this port last week, from Oswego. We notice that another vessel of the same class and name was to leave Buffalo on Monday evening last, for this port. We are at a loss to know the reason which governs owners of vessels in labeling a new craft with the same name others of a similar class bear. If there is any good taste in so doing, we should like to have it explained. If the Buffalo vessel is to continue to sail under the name of Great West, we suggest that No 2 be added to it, that the two crafts can be distinguished when reported as "spoken," or as arrived or cleared at any of the Lake ports. The Buffalo Express gives the following description of the Great West, of that port:

The largest sail vessel that ever floated upon fresh water, has just been completed at this port. She was built at the ship-yard of Mr. G. S. Weeks, for H. C. Walker & Co., and is christened the Great West. This good looking monster is of the following dimensions; Length of keel, 176 feet; over all, 200 feet; breadth of beam, 35 feet 4 inches; depth of hold, 14 feet; tonnage 765. She is beautifully modeled, and built in a thoroughly workmanlike strong and compact manner throughout. Her rigging is fashioned after the Forbes' patent; and those who know best, declare that it is the best ever produced in this latitude. Her fore and main masts are 200 feet high, and she carries no less than 5,000 yards of canvass. She has a double engine, of 6 horse power, on her deck to be used for the purposes of loading, unloading and hauling. She has also a patent steering apparatus, which possesses many admirable points, and two of Allyn's patent capstans. The fore-castle is supplied with patent dead lights, rendering it lighter and cooler than is customary. It is estimated that she will carry 40,000 bushels of corn, drawing less than 11 feet of water. The cabin is grained and gilded, and is the largest and handsomest we have ever seen upon a sail vessel. Everything about her unites comeliness with strength, and she will every where be regarded as a model of architectural skill and artistic finish. Her entire cost was $30,000.—The Great West is commanded by Capt. M. Capron, a brave and experienced sailor. She has on board 750 tons of freights and draws only 9 feet 4 inches of water.

Among the arrivals at the port of Buffalo on the 25th and 26th, were the following from this port: barques Danube, and Illinois; brigs Young America, Banner, and Northampton; schooners C. P. Williams, Arctic, Grand Turk, Fortune, and Montgomery.

Cleared on the 26th, for this port: propeller Dunkirk; barques Great West, and American Republic, (latter goes to Erie to load;) schooners Virginia Purdy, R. R. Johnson, Grand Turk, Flying Cloud, and Arctic.

The Lake Steamers which run in connection with the Michigan Central Railroad, now leave Toledo, as well as Monroe. They leave Toledo for Buffalo every forenoon, and Monroe every afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Cleared, from Detroit on the 26th, schooner Signal, for Chicago.

☞ We have received a number of letters recently, making inquiries concerning the order of Know Nothings, asking where installing officers can be had, and whether there are any in this city.

We can give them no reliable information.—The whole matter is so completely enshrouded in mystery and secrecy, that we really Know Nothing of its details or secrets. It is said that a lodge has been in operation in this city for two weeks, and we have heard the names of a number of its members, but the report may be a hoax. Our advice to correspondents is to preserve their souls in patience, and wait until the elephant comes along—they will then see him; he can't be hurried.

☞ We were pleased to receive a call on yesterday morning from DAVID L. CRANDALL, Esq., who has lately accepted the office of General Agent for the Great Western (Canada) Railroad. He will soon establish his head quarters in our city, in the new granite building corner of Lake and Clark streets. The Great Western Road is peculiarly fortunate in securing the services of this gentleman, as he is of that order of men who take hold of things by their right end, and don't let go of them until they are right. We have the more faith in Mr. Crandall, from the fact that he was formerly a member of the most honorable fraternity in the world, namely, the Editorial. He was, for some time, the editor of the Lockport (N. Y.) Courier.

NOT ONE MILE OFF.—A Dutchman was being driven down Clark street yesterday, in an open wagon, and apparently sweltering under the broiling sun. Espying a five cent piece on the side walk, he jumped from the wagon to get it, but the hot bricks made the ends of his fingers so sensitive that he quickly regained his seat, and sung out to the boy—"Hav, drive on! Mine Got, I—— ish not von mile from dish place!"

DARING ROBBERY.—The house of Ira B. Hedden, in the West division, was entered during Tuesday evening, and a general rummaging took place—the pocket book of Mr. Hedden containing a note of G. F. Vedder, payable on demand, for $350 and a small sum of money, and sundry papers were taken; also a trunk belonging to George Marcellus was broken open and $130 in California gold taken therefrom. Mr. M. has been sick for some time, and the loss to him is severe. He offers a reward of $25 for the recovery of the money, and $50 for the thief and money.

☞ We are authorized by Mr. Johnson, Superintendent of the Aurora Railroad, to say that all persons who wish to attend the Old Soldier's Meeting and Celebration on the 4th of July, will be carried for half fare—that is, they will pay the whole fare going out, and be brought back free.

SABBATH SCHOOL PIC NIC.—The members of the Sabbath School connected with the Indiana street Methodist Episcopal Church will go on an excursion to-day to Deer Grove, on the Illinois and Wisconsin Railroad. The party will start from the Depot on the west side of the North Branch, at 8 o'clock this morning.

A PLEASURE TRIP.—A large party of ladies and children, numbering about 300 persons, visited this city yesterday, from Lake Zurich, Deer Grove and vicinity. They came in on the Illinois and Wisconsin Railroad, the officers of which gave them a free ride both to and from the city. The party was welcomed at the depot in an appropriate speech by Dr. C. V. Dyer, who in company with others showed them through the city. The excursionists remained here about two hours and left in the afternoon for their homes, highly pleased with their short but pleasant visit.

POLICE COURT.

Before Mayor Milliken—Wednesday morning, June 28th.

John Galvin was charged with being drunk on a dray—whether in the capacity of driver or passenger the books saith not. John endeavored to excuse himself by saying that he was "as decent a man as ever came to Chicago," but this vindication of character did not save him from a fine of $2 and costs.

John Keeley was found drunk on Clark st., during the night, shouting "fire, murder," and creating a considerable noise. Fined $2 and sent to the Bridewell for 30 days. John didn't like the idea of returning to the Wells street station, for "it is so hard work," he said. It seems that he had but recently graduated from there.

John Gibbs, formerly of Niles, Mich., was told he had been drunk—nothing new to him. John said it must be so, or he wouldn't have been in the Watch house—a very reasonable conclusion; fined $3.

Richard Clark, was also charged with being drunk. He said he hadn't lost one hour before for 12 months, except on one similar occasion. A bill of $3 and costs was made out against him.

Michael Kelley, another hard looking drunkard, was fined $2 for his whiskey-loving propensities. Mike said he wasn't able to pay a shilling—so that he is probably working out the amount at the Bridewell.

Patrick Ross, a sailor, was found resting at full length on the sidewalk, drunk. He said his Captain had recommended the men to use liquor the previous day, rather than water, and he probably took too much. His bill amounted to $3 12½.

Michael Hanraford, was charged with sleeping with another man's wife. The case was postponed, in consequence of the principal witness being absent.

ALUM SPRING WATER.

We wish to direct particular attention to the advertisement, in to-day's paper, of the Virginia Rockbridge Alum Spring Water, kept for sale by F. TEWING, general agent, and by several Druggists of our city. We are happy to fully corroborate what is said in respect to the really wonderful virtues of this water. We have experienced great benefit from it in our own person, and we are acquainted with a gentleman of this city in whose health it has wrought an almost miraculous cure. It is very pleasant, and, with a small lump of ice with it, forms one of the most salubrious drinks possible.

THE COUNCIL AND THE FOURTH.

The refusal of the Council to appropriate several thousand dollars from the city treasury, to be expended on the "Fourth," in parades, powder, and bad liquor, has brought upon it the censure of a portion of our citizens; but the number, we are pleased to say, is mostly confined to those who do not pay taxes, and, therefore, are not sufferers by prodigality, even the most wasteful, and to those who desire a supply of grog at the expense of the public. We are confident that not less than two thirds of the tax payers fully approve of the action of the Council in the matter.

"EUROPEAN HOTELS."—Under this caption, a correspondent fills a small part of our paper, in commending the character of "Young America,"—an establishment in this city, that we noticed at some length a short time ago. While we think very much of good Hotels, conducted on the European plan, and desire to see them established in Chicago, we are equally desirous to see all drinking places closed, whether they be fitted up in the gorgeous style of Young America, or with nothing but a whiskey barrel and a bench and stool, like some of the many Irish groggeries on the North side of the river. There never will be "peace on earth" nor "good will among men," while rum shops of any description are permitted to poison the morals and madden the passions of the youth. To war against the low Irish groggeries and not against those "whited sepulchres," like "Young America," is incompatible with our ideas of justice, and we would warn the public against the latter with as much earnestness as our correspondent, "An Old Citizen," commends it.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS WATER.—An agency for the sale of this valuable Mineral Water has been established in this city, as will be seen by reference to our advertising columns. The testimonies in favor of its valuable medicinal qualities are of the strongest character, and commend it to the confidence of the public.—For Dyspepsia, to which persons of sedentary habits are subject, we know it to be valuable, from personal observation. At this season, when diseases of the stomach prevail, a liberal use of it will be found highly advantageous. It is pleasant to the taste, and, unlike most other mineral waters, does not lose its medicinal properties by exposure.

OLD THINGS PASSING AWAY.—E. Rawson's Warehouse, one of the oldest buildings in the city, having been built by G. Hubbard Esq. during the first settlement of the city, is being removed from its present location, on the river opposite the Light House. The Galena R. R. Co. are to erect a large grain warehouse on its site, the piles for the foundation of which are now being driven down. This new building, which is to be of stone, and 250 feet in length, is very much needed, as there is scarcely half buildings enough in town, in which to store the immense quantities of grain coming into the city.

☞ The Chinese Pantascope and Pyrotechnoscope is on exhibition at South Market Hall. It is well worth seeing, and those who are seeking for amusement, during the evenings of this week, can there spend their time with pleasure, and for a small cost.

☞ The Journal of last evening, remarking upon our article of that morning in reference to the disruption of the Whig Party, thinks it difficult to discover upon what platform we stand. Perhaps it would not be so much troubled about the matter were we not in the habit of frequently standing upon its toes, and treading upon its corns. Does the Journal acknowledge the corn?

LIQUOR SELLING.—Some half dozen liquor sellers were arrested yesterday, examined before the Mayor, and each fined $20 and costs, for selling spirits without license. Marshal Knights is searching out these cases, and bringing them up to the ring with a determination that entitles him to credit. Among the number examined yesterday, was one fellow who had been selling without license for two years.

GONE! GONE!—Col. Wood's four greatest of living human curiosities,—the Big Woman, Little Woman, Dwarf, and Bearded Woman,—exhibit the last time to-night. Thousands have visited them, only to express their astonishment. Probably four such curiosities could not be found elsewhere in the whole world, and probably never will be found again.

☞ We understand that a child three years old fell into a privy vault, on the alley between Ohio and Indiana streets, on Tuesday afternoon, and was suffocated. There are said to be several dangerous places in that alley, which require attending to by the proper officers.

HOT WEATHER.—The warm weather during the past week has had such a melting effect on the rollers in our press room as to make them almost useless. The consequence is, that our paper has been "badly worked," and yesterday morning the second page was hardly readable. We trust that some cool weather may soon come, that this evil may be remedied.

☞ The Canal boat J. V. Germain, laden with corn, was towed against a raft of lumber yesterday, a mile below the city, staving a hole in her, causing a leak, and injuring about 1000 bushels of corn, which was afterwards sold for 30c ₩ bushel—a loss to the owner of 20c ₩ bushel, or $200 in all.

☞ The Light Guards were out on parade yesterday afternoon.

COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW of the CHICAGO MARKET.

Office of the Chicago Daily Tribune,
Wednesday, June 28—7 P. M.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] as anticipated, has made a lull time for the last week in the Corn and Oats market, and these grains have maintained the last week's prices [illegible]. [illegible] however, and the near approach of harvest, there has been a rapid decline in Wheat since our last Weekly Review, and to-day, under the influence of the decline in Wheat, the mills which have raised on the best brands of Flour, have taken off 50c ₩ bbl—$8 25 now being the price of best brands at the different mills. Wheat is nominally 95c to $1 for common Spring.—Winter bringing higher, though there is little of either offered or bought, not being much left of the old crop in the country.

Wool [illegible] very freely, but on account of declining rates, sales were to-day made at [illegible] than on the better grades than were offered last week, [illegible] [illegible] Good Hams are getting scarce, which is usual at this season of the year, though there has been no change whatever in the price of [illegible] the week.

Lumber and Shingles are but little changed from last week's quotations. The receipts are large, and the demand is equally large.

We notice sales and the condition of the market as follows:

WHEAT.—Transactions during the week are as follows: On the 23d, sales of 1350 bu mixed, to mill, 1,30; [illegible] bu do to M. C. On the 24th, sales of 300 bu common winter to mill 1,30; and 2 [illegible] spring to do at 1,15. Also 2,000 bu spring yesterday at 1,15, which appears to be the governing price to-day.—On the 26th small lot of spring to mill at 1,15. [illegible] millers ceased purchasing at that price; and 400 bu in small lots from wagon sold at 95c to 1,0[illegible] for common spring.—On the 27th, nominally 95c to 1,00. Sale of 283 bu, from wagon, at former figures.—To-day, 300 bu to mill, common spring, at 95c, was the only sale heard of.

CORN.—On the 23d sales of [illegible] bu corn at 51c afloat; [illegible] at 5[illegible] to complete cargo; 12,000 bu at 5[illegible] afloat; [illegible] bu at [illegible] to warehouse; 5,000 bu at [illegible] on track; [illegible] per 6[illegible] on track; and a car load at [illegible] on track.—On the 23d, sales of 800 bu at [illegible] on Ga[illegible] R. track; 700 bu at [illegible] to warehouse; and 300 bu at [illegible] at M. C. R. depot.—On the 24th, sales of [illegible] bu at [illegible] ; a boat load afloat [illegible]; 600 bu, [illegible] at depot, and [illegible] to warehouse at [illegible] aboard at [illegible]. Also sales yesterday unreported of 15,000 bu at 51c aboard and 10,000 bu at [illegible] to be delivered next week.—On the 26th, 18,000 on [illegible] Saturday evening at 50c aboard.—To-day sales were made of 5,000 bu at 51c aboard; 5,000 bu at 50c afloat; 8,000 bu boated at [illegible] afloat; 120 bu at [illegible] track; [illegible] bu at 52c per [illegible] at M. C. R. depot and 600 bu at 51c ₩ bu on track.—On the 27th, sales of 5,000 bu at 50c, aboard; 2,000 do at 51c, aboard; and small sales of 300 and 600 bu at 50 ₩ bu, on track.—[illegible] on track, is the only sale heard of to-day, though others were doubtless made.

CAUTION TO THOSE WHO USE SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS,
EITHER AS A BEVERAGE OR MEDICINE.

WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS.

THIS above named preparation has become extensively known throughout the length and breadth of the United States, and is universally admitted to be the most delightful beverage, invigorating, and pure preparation of the juniper berry that has ever been in general use, [illegible] [illegible] the distillation and preparation of pure liquors have ever been employed in producing.

A long established manufacturer and importer of liquors of every description, the undersigned devoted himself to the production of an article of pure gin, which should prove a valuable agent in the cure of the manifold diseases which afflict the human race, and for which Holland Gin has been prescribed by the medical faculty for years. At length his efforts were crowned with success at his extensive distillery in Schiedam, Holland, from which place the present gin has been imported, and he was enabled to give to the world his Schnapps, which, for purity and extreme freedom from the pernicious fusil oil, acid and all other injurious ingredients, and containing the aromatic flavor, has never been equalled, and cannot be excelled.

In order to protect himself from pecuniary loss at the hands of cheats, imposters and pirates, who would unconscionably attempt to palm off a vile and spurious article upon the unsuspecting community, and, lest the seal be deceptively imitated, or Paper their very vials, he resorted to the expedient of stamping the words upon the schnapps, [illegible] in pint and quart bottles.

These bottles are of glass, stamped with the name of the [illegible] and wrapped in [illegible] and have printed labels bearing the signature of Udolpho Wolfe, on both. They are sealed [illegible] [illegible] so as to prevent [illegible] [illegible] the remedy in which form alone, they can be obtained in case of [illegible].

Notwithstanding all these guards, unprincipled parties have been found guilty of the unpardonable and criminal practice of buying up empty bottles, filling them with [illegible] [illegible] and selling them to the most pernicious liquors, which a [illegible] unwary purchaser [illegible] [illegible] to a wretched "contraband" grave [illegible].

It is only necessary, therefore, for those who purchase the article by retail, or drink it at public places, to examine the appearance of the bottles from which they drink. Caution is necessary.

The Schnapps have been introduced but about two years, but in that brief time their virtues have been acknowledged to an almost incredible extent, until it is a matter of some difficulty to keep up a supply adequate to the demand, as orders are coming in from every State and territory in the Union, from Maine to Oregon and California.

Determined that the virtues of the Schnapps should be thoroughly and carefully tested by the most scientific and unquestionable testimonials, circulars were issued, and to every regular member of the medical faculty, and professional chemist whose name could be obtained, soliciting their acceptance of a bottle of the Schnapps with a view of enabling them to test its medicinal qualities in their practice, and submit it to the strictest chemical analysis in their laboratories.

Of the ten thousand physicians and chemists in the United States, not less than four thousand accepted the offer. Upwards of two thousand have promptly furnished their written endorsement that the article is all that is claimed for it and in the strongest language recommend its general use, not only as a remedial agent, but a delightful, wholesome and pleasant beverage. These voluntary endorsements are from gentlemen of unquestionable knowledge and the most perfect integrity.

Not all can these practitioners and chemists furnished their testimonials. The public press, in almost every principal city and town, has spoken loudly in its favor in its editorial columns.

The New York Medical Gazette and Journal of Health, high authority, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] its silence. In the July number of that journal, Dr. Reese, its accomplished editor, has publicly invited a discussion upon the subject of the use of alcoholic mixtures, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] ingredients, and the views of the medical faculty in reference to the Schnapps in particular, giving as a reason that the article would be, beyond the pale of Physicians, therefore, who have not already complied with my request, are invited to send their opinion as to its qualities, will confer one by doing so through the editor of the Medical Gazette.

Were it necessary to do more than simply state this fact, which he who runs may read, the advertisement could be increased to an indefinite length by the publication of these authorities, all on file at the ware rooms of the proprietor, in New York.

It is not only as a remedial agent that the Schnapps are to be recommended, but as a gentle and perfectly harmless stimulant, which cannot be otherwise than beneficial and invigorating, and may be indulged in with impunity by those of temperate habits without the slightest fear of the benevolent, successful, and terrible consequences of intoxication, that vice which desolates the social hearth, entails misery upon countless thousands, fills our hospitals, almshouses and prisons, and even furnishes the gallows with its deadly fruit.

In countries where pure wines and liquors can be had readily, and for a mere trifle, they are freely used by all classes, and drunkenness is hardly known—that vice to which the tongue of the immortal poet so aptly applies:

"A monster of such hideous mien,
That to be hated, need but to be seen."

Were Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps to be drank in preference to all other distilled or fermented liquors, our temperance societies would have less arduous labor to perform, and Morrice tremens, Gough sermons, and the other learned, eloquent and devoted friends of true abstinence, would rarely be called on to ascend the rostrum, and carry thousands of them with "an almost cure," to the great and startling truths they relate with such fervid and tremendous eloquence. There need be no Maine law to suppress intoxication.

As long as man and woman will persist in drinking drugged, adulterated, poisoned liquors, with which the country is flooded, drunkenness and all its concomitant evils must exist. We may well exclaim with Cassio—

"Oh, that a man will put an enemy into his mouth
To steal away his brains."

In many districts of this country, particularly in the region of the great western and southern rivers, the character of their waters is such as to produce great disarrangement of the system, and frequently chronic disorders of an incurable character, which would be a matter of supererogation to all those who reside in the districts specified. When qualified with the Schnapps, the bad effects are counteracted or destroyed. The fact has become so known at the South and West, that the Schnapps are in demand to the extent of thousands of bottles daily. Another great recommendation is their undoubted and well established purity, which can be proved by chemical analyzation of the contents of any and every bottle bearing the above enumerated evidences of genuineness. They court the severest and most rigid tests, and defies any person or persons to prove to the contrary, or to produce an equally pure extract of the juniper berry or Holland gin.

The public are again cautioned that Wolfe's Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps can only be procured in the pint and quart bottles, stamped, labelled and corked, and in colored wrappers, with the signature of the proprietor affixed; and that the word Schnapps belongs exclusively to my medicinal beverage. All others are counterfeit.

RETIREMENT OF
PROFESSOR JAS. McCLINTOCK, M. D.
FROM THE PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL COLLEGE.

☞ The undersigned have the pleasure of informing the public that they have made arrangements with the eminent Professor James McClintock, M. D. of Philadelphia, known for more than a quarter of a century past as one of the greatest Practitioners and Teachers of Medicine and Surgery in this country or in Europe, for the preparation of his long celebrated Family Medicines.

These remedies embrace some of the most valuable discoveries and combinations ever known for the cure of disease. They are the fruits of the most profound investigation, the widest research, and the most unequalled experience of one of the first physicians of the age. Each remedy is especially adapted to some particular form of disease, in accordance with the highest principles of modern medical science. Each of these remedies has been tried, improved and finally perfected, in the course of a long, active and highly successful practice, not only in Philadelphia, but throughout many distant sections of the country to which his great reputation has called him. Their nature and effect are known and approved of by hundreds of regular physicians who have been his students and seen their beneficial results in Dr. McClintock's own hands while they were under his tuition, in the Colleges of Philadelphia, Castleton, Pittsfield and elsewhere.

The Philadelphia Sun remarks: "Eminently successful in his private practice, extensively known for his medical erudition, and as the instructor of more medical students than perhaps any other man in the Union, Dr. McClintock is just the person whose experience and reputation will beget that complete confidence in the public mind which will relieve his medicines from all suspicion of empiricism, and carry them into every house as a blessing."

Read the following Certificate:

"I do hereby certify that I have placed in the hands of Messrs A. Cushman & Co., New York, the recipes of my Family Medicines, with my full authority to prepare and offer them for popular use. They are such as I have been, in the habit of preparing and prescribing for many years and their composition is well known to hundreds of regular physicians, who have been my students, and who are many of them now practising with distinguished success in all parts of the country. In securing the co-operation of Mr. Alex Cushman, who is a thoroughly educated Chemist and practical apothecary of many years experience, I am enabled to assure the public that they will be prepared in the best, purest and most efficacious form, [illegible]

Dr. D's Office,
No. 112 WELLS STREET.

THE ONLY CERTAIN REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF Secret Diseases at 112 Wells Street. By the strict system established at the Lock Hospital, 112 Wells Street, all patients are secure of absolute privacy. The advantages of this system are too well known to need any comment. All who have any need of advice or attention from Dr. D., may confide in him with a full assurance of secrecy and certain hope of recovery. Some of the most learned and famous men in the country have been under the charge of Dr. D., [illegible] intellect and power—and in no instance has the strictest of privacy been violated.

Invalids must be cautioned against the illiterate and unlearned in science, who do so much injury by quackery and imposition. The Vegetable Medicines of Dr. D. are now [illegible] so easily established, as the only certain remedy for Venereal complaints, and those who are afflicted with such complaints are seriously warned not to tamper with them, by trusting those who practice the abuse of mercury or [illegible].

Dr. D. freely invites all troubled with disorders to call on him. His charges are regulated by the circumstances of the case. No charge will be made where a cure is not effected. Dr. D. is a regular physician, having devoted many years to the exclusive study of these diseases, [illegible] in the various stages, Gonorrhœa, Syphilis, Impotency, Seminal Weakness, Gleet, Scrofula, diseases of the bones, &c. Nothing is needed but to call upon him, to make everything satisfactory in a moment. Such is the absolute efficacy of the method of his cure, that no question can possibly exist about it, when once an individual becomes acquainted with the wholesome and certain process. It is but for a man to be afflicted, to be cured himself.

The greatest point for the consideration of every one is to avoid all communication with persons unequal and to give them relief. Serious and dangerous consequences ensue, more than the world is aware of from the treatment of quacks and impostors.

The only certain way is to visit the Lock Hospital, or Dr. D's office, at No. 112 Wells street, and at once place yourself under his care.

☞ Office will be kept open from 8 A. M. until 10 P. M.
☞ All letters (post paid) will receive prompt attention. Any person wishing a private room, until cured, can have it by applying to Dr. D.
